

Read the story The lost parrot. Then work in groups of four and act out the story.

Scene 1:

It's ten o'clock in the morning. Detective Jones is in his office. Suddenly his phone rings.

Jones: Good morning. Dreadlock Jones, the world's best detective. How can I help you?
 Miss Molly: This is Miss Molly. I can't find my parrot, Polly. Please, help me.
 Jones: Don't worry, Miss Molly. I can find your parrot. What is its name again, Penny?
 Miss Molly: No, it isn't called Penny, its name is Polly. P-O-L-L-Y. A red and blue parrot.
 Jones: I see. A parrot named Polly. Is it blue and red?
 Miss Molly: Yes, it is.
 Sir Toby: Who is on the phone, Molly?
 Miss Molly: It's Mr Jones, grandpa. The famous detective.
 Sir Toby: Sherlock Holmes?
 Miss Molly: No, not Sherlock Holmes. Dreadlock Jones.
 Sir Toby: Ah. I see.
 Jones: Listen, I have to go now, Miss Molly. Let's see if I can find your cat!
 Miss Molly: It's a parrot Mr Jones, remember?
 Jones: Right. Good-bye!
 Miss Molly: Good-bye!

It's 5 o'clock somewhere.

Scene 2:

It's eleven o'clock. Mr Jones is in the park. He phones Miss Molly.

Jones: Hello, Miss Molly. This is Dreadlock Jones speaking. I'm in the park. I'm looking for your parrot but Penny isn't here.
 Miss Molly: Polly! It's called Polly.
 Jones: Sorry, Miss Molly. Maybe Polly is in the zoo?
 Lady Jane: Who's on the phone?
 Miss Molly: It's Mr Jones again.
 Lady Jane: Where is he?
 Miss Molly: He is in the park.
 Lady Jane: He is in the dark?
 Miss Molly: No, he is not in the dark. He's in the park.
 Lady Jane: Aah, the park ... What does he do there?
 Miss Molly: He looks for my pet.
 Lady Jane: He looks for your cat? Where is your cat?
 Miss Molly: I haven't got a cat, grandma. I've got a parrot. Detective Jones is looking for it at the moment.
 Lady Jane: In the dark?
 Miss Molly: Be quiet, grandma.
 Jones: Alright, Miss Molly, I'll go to the zoo now. Maybe I can find your parrot there. Bye!

Scene 3:

It's one o'clock in the afternoon. Dreadlock Jones is at the zoo. He calls Miss Molly again.

Jones: Good afternoon, Miss Molly. Dreadlock Jones speaking. I am at the zoo now.

Miss Molly: Have you found Polly?

Jones: No, I'm sorry, I haven't. There is a parrot called Penny, but it isn't red and blue, it's green and yellow. I found it at the pets corner next to the café.

Sir Toby: Who are you talking to, Molly?

Miss Molly: It's the detective again. He is at the pets corner in the zoo.

Sir Toby: Has he got a pet?

Miss Molly: Have you got a pet, Mr Jones?

Jones: A pet? Yes, I have. I've got a black cat. It's called Hotter. Parry Hotter.

Miss Molly: He has got a black cat, grandpa. He calls it Parry Hotter.

Sir Toby: Harry Potter? I don't like Harry Potter.

Miss Molly: Be quiet, grandpa.

Jones: Perhaps your cat is in the woods, Miss Molly. I'll go to the woods and look for your cat.

Miss Molly: If you look for a cat you will never find my parrot! Please, find Polly!

Jones: Ah, you're missing a parrot, I forgot. I must go now, Miss Molly. I'll call you later.

Scene 4:

It's three o'clock. Dreadlock Jones is in the woods. He calls Miss Molly.

Jones: Hello, Miss Molly. It's me. I am in the woods now. I'm looking for your cat ... err ... parrot.

Miss Molly: Have you seen Polly?

Jones: No, not yet. I'm sorry. There are a lot of high trees. Maybe Polly is sitting in a tree.

Lady Jane: Who's on the phone, darling?

Miss Molly: It's Mr Jones, the detective.

Lady Jane: Where is he?

Miss Molly: He is in the woods.

Lady Jane: Why is he in the woods?

Miss Molly: He is looking for Polly, I told you.

Lady Jane: He is licking a lolly? In the woods?

Miss Molly: He isn't licking a lolly, he's looking for Polly, my parrot.

Sir Toby: Dolly? Who's Dolly?

Miss Molly: Be quiet, grandpa.

Lady Jane: When will he be back?

Miss Molly: When will you be back, Mr Jones?

Jones: I don't know. First I have to find Polly.

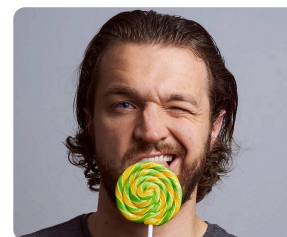

Miss Molly: He has to find Polly first. Then he will come back.

Sir Toby: I don't like black, I love pink!

Miss Molly: Shut up, grandpa!
